BARRIER CONTAINMENT

Barrier containment is an essential element of public safety. With building containment isolation systems, it is vital to choose the right tape to achieve an airtight seal and give full user confidence in safety critical applications. Scapa waterproof cloth tape is used extensively for containment systems, offering a superior product designed to cope with the rigorous demands of these difficult jobs.

Our range of quality waterproof cloth tapes can provide an effective solution to splicing and sealing requirements, offering both strength and flexibility, especially on tough and uneven surfaces.

Scapa 3162 is used extensively in quarantine environments to provide superior contact to uneven surfaces and difficult substrates such as PE sheeting, exceeding end user expectations with its easy unwind properties, ease of application, low stretch and easy to tear properties.

Scapa has extensive experience in supplying the containment market segment. Our UK based centre of excellence for cloth tape manufacture is well established as one of the largest producers of duct tape in Europe.
